

Do your GPs have all the essential non-clinical information they need at their fingertips?

If not, the
Standardised Practice Induction Pack does!

- Allows individual practices to efficiently and effectively inform all GPs of the 200 essential non-clinical items of information that are specific to the provision of care to their patients.
- Reduces the risk of enforced underperformance by new or temporary general practitioners working in an unfamiliar environment.
  - For Freelance GPs, new principals, assistants, retainers, registrars.
- Includes CD-ROM with Word file and previous copies of NASGP Newsletter

Ensure every practice in your area has taken all appropriate measures to reduce the risk of under provision and underperformance by GPs unfamiliar with their surroundings

“Medico legal experts are advising GPs to put together locum ‘induction packs’ that include vital practice information. They should be a ‘bullet-point’ road map of practice protocols and information.”

Pulse

“The more information locums are given when they start at a practice, the better the quality of care they can deliver”

Health Which?

Find out at a glance:

- How do I refer for psychosexual counselling?
- How do I organise joint injections?
- How do I organise an emergency IUCD?
- Where do I refer for bone densitometry?
- Where can I get a paediatric urine collection bag?
- How do I contact a social worker in an emergency?
